In order to resolve this discrepancy or to verify the status change, please read and complete this form. Please attach any required documents and submit them to the Financial Aid Office nearest you. Additional information may be required. If you have questions, contact your financial aid administrator as soon as possible so that your financial aid will not be delayed.

Section B: Current Marital Status:

For Dependent Students: If your parents have separated or divorced, you must determine who your responsible parent is for FAFSA purposes. The responsible parent is the parent with whom you lived with the most during the twelve months before your FAFSA was completed. If you did not live with either parent, or if you lived with each parent equally, your responsible parent is the parent who provided you with more financial support in the twelve months prior to completing the FAFSA. Financial support includes gifts, loans, housing, food, clothing, car, money, medical and dental care, payment of college costs, etc.

If your responsible parent was remarried at the time the FAFSA was completed, your parents' marital status is considered "Married" and stepparent information is required on the FAFSA.

Check the marital status below that most accurately reflects the current marital status in question on the FAFSA.

Marital separation is defined as: (a) one of the partners has left the household for an indefinite period; and (b) the marriage is severed. If your circumstance does not meet both parts of this definition, then you are required to submit your spouses' information.

In order to determine status of separation, please provide each of the following items:

REFERENCE LETTERS: Please attach two letters from reputable third party sources (not relative or personal friend) who can endorse confirmation of the separation claim in their professional capacity on their business letterhead. For example, clergy person, marriage counselor or an attorney can provide such a letter. The letters should state the date of separation, living arrangements, length of time they have known student/parent and their knowledge of these events.
