Tim Tebow will be the guest speaker at Boots 'n BBQ: A night of Fun, Food, and Football, October 20th at 6pm, at Buckhead Barn.

This program provides tuition free schooling for children in impoverished families. There are facilities in Atlanta and Marietta where students may complete service projects. It is preferable that students plan on coming during the week, as weekends are unusually booked. This is a great fit for Early Childhood Education majors and Technical Communication Students who plan to specialize in social sciences.

They are looking for help with their Happy Birthday Jesus initiative and are interested in hiring an intern in their Education Department.
