In three days, this class examines individual and organizational lean leadership concepts and practices. This 24-hour class extends lean leader’s basic lean knowledge and understanding to include how to establish and develop a strong lean culture, enhance individual and organizational accountability and responsibility, create a more in-depth understanding of systems and processes, improve and nurture an environment that supports ongoing problem solving to the root cause level, establish leader standard work, and identify wastes that impede organizational excellence.

Participants expand their understanding and knowledge of basic lean operations by learning about value-added aspects of lean leadership and implementation. Value stream mapping is introduced and experienced as participants create VSMs to identify waste and obstacles and to develop improvement options. Effective and efficient problem solving approaches in a lean environment are also explored and practiced.

As lean is based on broad-based involvement of all employees, this class examines the lean culture and how the lean concepts add value throughout an organization. Lean workforce development concepts and practices such as TWI and performance management are also explored.
