[Leigh Hall] Library services is an instructional department. We are part of academic support and under Institutional Effectiveness. We help students with research and access to quality information. Our primary mission is to support students in their education, but we also support faculty and staff with professional development resources, and we promote reading and lifelong learning for everyone.

[Rosanne Guy] The library provides resources for students including books, e-books, and library databases, including Galileo. We provide research assistance both in-person and online. We're available through chat, phone, email, and text. We also help students with Microsoft Office and computer related questions. All of our libraries have designated study spaces, including private study rooms and study carols. So, if you find yourself looking for a quiet place to study in between classes, the library is your best bet.

[Colin Eade] Library guides are online pages that we created that focus on resources for courses and programs. They are like digital librarians, always available day or night. They have all the best resources for students success. Library guides have direct links to the best databases, e-books, and resources for assignments. There are even tutorials for citations for MLA and APA.

for MLA and APA. Information in the guides is always being updated to make sure that we always have the best and most current of information available.

[Shannon Gibson] The most important resource that the library has to offer is the staff. Our staff has many years of experience helping students. Library staff can help you find the right information. This includes all information you need for your research assignments. We offer research assistants for everyone. We can help you find books, articles, and databases for all of your research projects. Library staff can also teach you how to find credible information. We can also provide one-on-one assistance to help you with your research projects.

[Dylan Priddy] We really have a broad range of services that we offer to our students. One of the things we do that not many people know about, is that we purchased and deliver textbooks to our dual enrollment students. We also have computers where students can work on assignments and can print from. Students can even borrow hotspots, laptops, and calculators from the library. Sometimes the library hosts coffee events, and some of our libraries have ongoing wellness events that students can participate in between classes, things like coloring and puzzling. Really, we just want to be able to help students in any way that we can.

[Maricelli Roberts] The best way to stay up-to-date with the library is to follow us on social media. We have a regular schedule of posts with events, book reviews, and inspirational quotes. Find us on Instagram @ChattahoocheeTechLibrary, and on Facebook @ChattTech.Library. Be sure to check your student e-mail for updates and to read the student newsletter.

[Kathleen Britto] Library hours are based on campus class schedules, which means they vary. They vary from campus to campus. They vary from semester to semester. Some campuses are open at night and Marietta is usually open on Saturdays, but that's when classes are in session. During breaks, our hours are limited. To find out when each library is open, you can check the library webpage or any of our social media accounts. If you can't visit in-person, we can help you over the phone or through our chat service. Now, that's during library hours, not at 3AM. If you need help at 3AM though, you can submit a question through library answers and someone will write you back the next business day. I'd also like to mention that all current Chatt Tech students, faculty, and staff are welcome to use any of the seven campus libraries. We hope to see you soon.